Background and Introduction:-

Hadoop is an open-source framework that allows to store and process big data in a distributed environment across clusters. It is designed to scale up from single servers to thousands of machines. This refresher course provides a quick introduction to BigData, Map Reduce algorithm, and Hadoop Distributed File System.

Why Big Data?

Big data describes the large volume of data – both structured and unstructured – that inundates a business on a day-to-day basis. Big data is not just about data, rather it has become a complete subject, which involves various tools, techniques and frameworks.

Things which come under Big Data:-

Big data involves the data produced by different devices and applications. Some of the areas that come under the umbrella of Big Data are as:-

➢ Social Media Data.
➢ Stock Exchange Data.
➢ Search Engine Data.
➢ Transport Data.
➢ Medical Data.
➢ Banking Data.
➢ Education Data.
➢ Retail Data.
➢ Government Data and many more.

Audience:-

This course has been prepared for the faculties who aspire to learn the basics of Big Data using Hadoop Framework

Prerequisites:-

Before we start this course the Exposure to Core Java, database concepts, and any of the Linux operating system flavors are required.

Apart from University requirement, In this modern era of advancement we should know the emerging Technologies like hadoop and BigData. In order to prepare students ready for facing the industry.

Development of the Training Program:-

The co-ordination of the course was handed over to Prof. Leena Deshmukh.The course structure was discussed with the HOD Prof. Shweta Padale.

About the Course:-

This course was designed as 6 hours of classroom and hands on training, in which each session was of 3 Hrs.

About the Trainer:-

The trainer for the course was Mr.Yatish Abhale who is working with xento systems, Pune.
