Brief report:

According to a report - Waste management rules in India are based on the principles of "sustainable development", "precaution" and "polluter pays". These principles mandate municipalities and commercial establishments to act in an environmentally accountable and responsible manner—restoring balance, if their actions disrupt it.

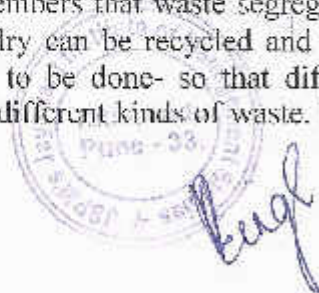

Our country is passing through a phase of rapid urbanization and with this the nation faces a massive waste management challenge. It is estimated that over 377 million urban people live in 7,935 towns and cities and generate 62 million tons of municipal solid waste per annum. Only 43 million tons (MT) of the waste is collected, 11.9 MT is treated and 31 MT is dumped in landfill sites. The key to efficient and successful waste management system is to ensure proper segregation of waste at source.

To solve this problem we as a responsible educational institute and a sensible corporate citizen we decided to contribute by whatever little means we could and hence we decided to approach Housing Society near our institute and educate them about the importance of Proper Segregation of Household Waste into Wet and Dry Waste.

We approached Mangaltirth Co-operative Housing Society Ltd. and received a positive response from them.

The Team went to this society on 2nd February 2014 (Sunday) at around 9 am, since it was informed to us that on Sunday maximum number of members would be available.

Initially the students explained to the members that waste segregation basically means keeping wet and dry wastes separately; so that dry can be recycled and wet waste can be composted. They explained why segregation needs to be done- so that different processes- composting, recycling, incineration can be applied to different kinds of waste. Examples of different kinds of dry waste were given to them.

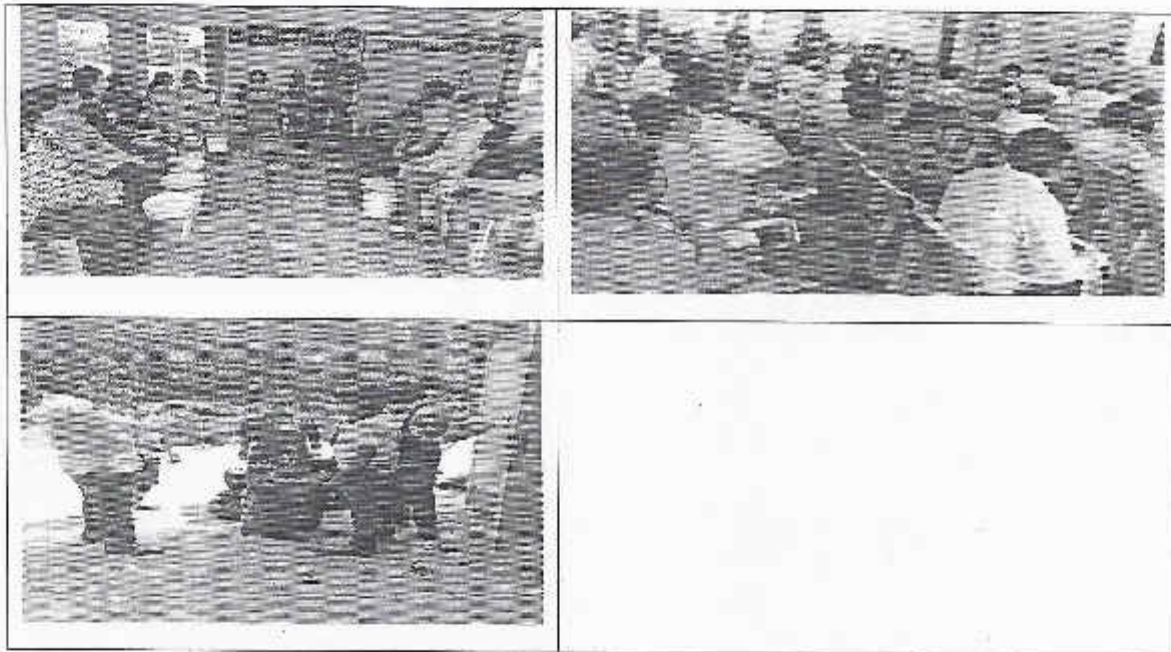

Further it was suggested that how to separate the waste material viz. keeping separate containers for dry and wet waste in the kitchen, keeping two bags for dry waste collection- paper and plastic, for the rest of the household waste etc.

We requested them to explain waste segregation to their family members and staff in the society building to also understand this important issue.

We also requested them that if they are in possession of old clothes, shoes, toys etc and if they are still in usable condition, they should be given to some organization that collects them. We offered them our services in case they require it in future.

The suggestions were well accepted by the society members and they appreciated the students for being involved in such a noble cause.

Prof. Gorakh Wakhare proposed vote of thanks.
